The directors of W Limited are considering the purchase of a specialised machine, IM, to manufacture a product which has a product life of three years. They have two options.

Option 2 To buy the most recent model, IM8, a new machine.

The variable operating cost, $4.80 per machine hour, is the same for either machine. Both machines will be depreciated using the straight-line method with no residual value. The selling price is $52 per unit. The estimated sales, in units, are as follows:
