Wood Additions (WA)

WA is a small private limited company that makes high-quality wooden furniture. It was started 10 years ago by the Singh family. Two brothers and one sister are the only shareholders and they are also the directors of the company. They carry out all the management functions in the business and there are two office workers to support them. As WA is a small business it buys in services from other businesses such as transport companies.

WA makes many different designs of wooden furniture. WA only buys wood from forests that use sustainable methods so that new trees are planted when others are cut down. The cost of this wood is high but the directors think that this cost is justified as WA aims to be environmentally friendly.

WA employs 20 highly skilled production workers in the factory. Each worker specialises in one task. All employees in the factory and the office are paid an hourly wage that is 10% above the legal minimum wage.

WA uses batch production for most furniture designs with machinery that was purchased when the business was started. WA uses cost-plus pricing and has an average selling price of $200 per item of furniture. This price is higher than many of its competitors. Each year WA introduces new designs of furniture. In 2018, WA's profit fell and the directors are worried about this. The directors want to increase productivity as a way to improve profit. The Operations Director is considering purchasing computer-controlled machines.

Individual furniture designs, when requested by a customer, are made using job production. These items of furniture have an average selling price of $250. Each item takes twice as long to make as the furniture made by batch production.
